CONFERENCE SCHEDULE

8:30-9 am  Registration, Hudson Hall Continental Breakfast

9-10 am    Keynote Presentation
            Kathryn L. Roberts, PhD

10-10:20 am Break and Book Sale

10:20-11:35 am Workshop Session I

11:35-11:45 am Break and Book Sale

11:45-1 pm  Workshop Session II

1:15-2:15 pm Lunch with Author Talks

REGISTRATION FEE

On or before April 8: $40
Late registration (after April 8): $50
Full-time students: $20
Reading council members: $30
Lunch with authors: $5
Make checks payable to: Mount Saint Mary College
Mail to: 2016 Literacy Conference
         Division of Education
         Mount Saint Mary College
         330 Powell Avenue
         Newburgh, NY 12550

FEATURED SPEAKER

Kathryn L. Roberts, PhD

Kathryn L. Roberts, PhD, is a teacher, author, researcher, and assistant professor of Reading, Language, and Literature at Wayne State University. A former kindergarten teacher, she currently teaches pre-service and graduate courses in literacy education. Her research interests include family literacy, visual literacy, and emergent literacy. Kathryn is the lead author of the series Engaging Families in Children’s Literacy Development, the family literacy program currently free to all families with young children in Newburgh.

LUNCH WITH AUTHORS

D. H. Figueredo

D. H. Figueredo is the author of children’s books: When This World Was New and The Road to Santiago, both of which have been translated into Spanish. His books for both children and adults focus on Latino history and culture. His latest book, Revolvers and Pistolas, Vaqueros and Caballeros: Debunking the Old West, compares historical facts with the Hollywood’s depiction of the “Wild West”.

London Ladd

London Ladd has illustrated children’s books, including March On! The Day My Brother Martin Changed the World, which received a Parents’ Choice award; Lend a Hand: Poems about Giving; and Oprah: The Little Speaker. Ladd lives in Syracuse, New York, with his family, where he plans to create an art center in which families can create art.
SESSION I WORKSHOPS

1. Exploring Diverse Families in Children’s Literature (PreK-3)
   In this session we will learn about books that reflect all kinds of families of all kinds of ethnic heritages. We will explore these books in different ways, including arts-based strategies. A bibliography will be provided.
   Jane Gangi, Associate Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College

2. Hands-On Literacy: No Paper or Pencil Required! (PreK-K)
   Participants will explore literacy opportunities within an animal unit. Participants will learn how to use visual vocabulary boxes to teach content specific vocabulary, in addition to songs and transition activities to promote phonemic awareness. Be ready to get dirty, get involved, and share experiences!
   Antonia Uszenski, Director/Owner, Little Harvard

3. Effective Communication Between Teachers, Parents and Students (K-8)
   Successful teachers strive to build positive relationships between parents and schools to support student learning. Clear methods of communication are the foundation of this relationship and help create a sense of community between home and school. In this session we will learn to tell personal and folkloric stories.
   Laconia Therriex, Professional Storyteller and Chaplin, Stamford Hospital

4. School, Home, and Music: A Symbiosis for a Noteworthy Literacy Partnership to Enhance Foundational Skills in Early Literacy (K-6)
   This action research project brings parents and children together in the singing of time-honored and inspirational songs. A music-infused curriculum in early literacy not only provides complementary support for teaching foundational skills from the CCSS in phonological awareness, but enhances oral language and vocabulary in universal appeal spanning the generations. Borrowing from shared reading pedagogy, this interactive presentation includes lesson plans, video clips, and artifacts of student learning. Bring your voices; we’ll bring the keyboard.
   Karen Waters, Director of the Literacy Specialist Programs at Sacred Heart University
   Jessica Nichols, 2nd grade Teacher at Geraldine Johnson Elementary School in Bridgeport, CT

5. Promoting Literacy in the Community: Literacy Alive Initiative (K-12)
   Many teachers seek to connect their classrooms with families and communities. Gain strategies and resources to increase family involvement, student engagement and achievement, teacher proficiency and self-efficacy by using proven, Literacy Alive programs and events. Participants will be introduced to effectively designed and implemented “Gold Literacy Alive” programs from around the country. Additionally, the presenters, Literacy Alive award winners, will share their experience and lessons learned from the steps of organizing Literacy Alive programs and events.
   Matthew Cerasaro, Mount Saint Mary College
   Kappa Delta Pi Sigma Tau Chapter 451 President
   Ludmilla Smirnova, Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College

6. Using Presidential Politics as a Teaching Tool: Critical Media Literacy with Adolescents (7-12)
   This action research project brings parents and children together in the singing of time-honored and inspirational songs. A music-infused curriculum in early literacy not only provides complementary support for teaching foundational skills from the CCSS in phonological awareness, but enhances oral language and vocabulary in universal appeal spanning the generations. Borrowing from shared reading pedagogy, this interactive presentation includes lesson plans, video clips, and artifacts of student learning. Bring your voices; we’ll bring the keyboard.
   Karen Waters, Director of the Literacy Specialist Programs at Sacred Heart University
   Jessica Nichols, 2nd grade Teacher at Geraldine Johnson Elementary School in Bridgeport, CT

SESSION 2 WORKSHOPS

1. Family Storytelling (PreK-5)
   To foster oral language, literacy and imagination, participants in this session will learn to tell personal and folkloric stories.
   Laconia Therriex, Professional Storyteller and Chaplin, Stamford Hospital

2. Going Google: Easy Ways of Staying Creatively Connected with Students and Families via Google Drive (K-12)
   Whether you are an elementary, middle or high school teacher, Google Drive can be used for easy collaboration among your students or with others outside the classroom. Participants will explore the benefits of using Google Drive tools for anytime, anywhere collaboration, learn how easy it is to use Google Drive, and be provided with examples of ways in which it can be used to engage students in productive collaboration, presentation and sharing.
   Ludmilla Smirnova, Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College

3. Promoting Literacy and Global Awareness through Heifer International’s Read to Feed® (K-6)
   Learn about Heifer International’s Read to Feed® Reading Incentive/Global Awareness Program and how to include families and the community to enhance the educational and social impact of this program.
   Meredith Inkeles, Library Media Specialist at the Kinry Road Elementary School, Wappingers, NY
   Mary Bish, Principal at Kinry Road Elementary, Wappingers, NY

   “That’s the thing about books. They let you travel without moving your feet.” With a great book, a child can travel anywhere in the world. Come learn about the community literacy experience called Around the World in Stories. Features of this program include anchor word instruction, multicultural books, and comprehension conversations. We will brainstorm ways to adapt Around the World in Stories to meet the needs of your school and/or community. You will leave this session with resources, research, and inspiration to start your own worldly program.
   Nicole Zazzero, Graduate Research Assistant for the Collaborative for Equity in Literacy Learning (CELL), Mount Saint Mary College

5. Literacy Strategies for Gifted Readers (3-6)
   This workshop discusses the characteristics and needs of advanced and gifted readers. In addition, it explains how parents and teachers can engage accelerated readers at their levels with helpful strategies and ideas.
   Victoria Caruana, Assistant Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College

6. Who’s Missing Graduation? (4-8)
   Over one million American students simultaneously qualify for reduced-price lunch and rank in the top quartile academically. Wyner, Bridgeland, and Diisaulo assert these students fall into the “achievement trap”: the public assumes they will be “fine,” but research shows they are less likely than their higher-income peers to attend and graduate from college. This workshop will explore the barriers facing high-achieving low-income students, and brainstorm how families and schools together can help students breakthrough.
   Lindsay Roe, Vanderbilt University

7. TED Talks in the Classroom: Engaging Students in Multimodal Literacy Activities (7-12)
   The presenters will share aspects of the “Senior Talks” project (modeled after TED Talks). This project requires students to use a variety of multi-modal reading, writing, and communication skills to create and deliver their own “talks.” Participants will gain insight into how to implement all or part of the project in their own classrooms.
   Matthew Freedman, English Teacher, Newburgh Free Academy
   David Gallagher, Associate Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College
   Matt J. Hollibush, Associate Professor of Education, Mount Saint Mary College

Collaborative for Equity in Literacy Learning